This application offers you all the features related to automated start-up tools. With this handy tool, you can remove programs that you don't use, disable unneeded programs or stop applications that run at startup. To do that, you can use the simple and intuitive interface of this software. Moreover, Start-Up Tool is a portable software which means that it's not hard to install. Therefore, it can be easily loaded onto a different computer or a different portable device. Furthermore, your computer's registry keys won't be affected. Additionally, when you remove some programs from the list, you don't need to reinstall it on your computer. The interface of Start-Up Tool is quite handy, and its effortless navigation makes it a good solution for removing unnecessary programs from the Windows startup list. Moreover, it allows you to check out the startup settings of programs. By opening the right-click menu, you can remove an entry from the Windows startup list, update or disable it, view more detailed information concerning this entry, and find its location. In order to add a new program to the list, you can open the right-click menu, choose a program and click the Add button. Normally, you can't edit the Windows startup settings, and Start-Up Tool is no exception. However, you can edit the Startup programs list. It's quite simple, and it'll be easier for you to customize what applications should be run at startup. By opening the settings window, you can modify the entries of the list (you can add, remove or edit an entry) and also check out the current values of each field in the list. By using a button, you can reset all the saved settings. The default options are quite functional, and it'll be easy to get started. The startup tools list can be exported to a text file. Moreover, you can get rid of all startup entries and set new settings with just one click. Start-Up Tool provides a user-friendly interface, and its compact and intuitive design allows you to start using the program right away. Its installation is quite simple, and it'll be much faster than other software. There were no issues during our tests. However, if you want more features, you should go for a more powerful software.
